

Nature Photography Workshop

Watkins Glen State Park
Watkins Glen, New York

Dave FitzSimmons
Sigma Pro Photographer

May 22, 2010 • 8 am – 6 pm

cost: $175

* Limited to 16 participants

sponsored by

SIGMA

© Dave FitzSimmons. All Rights Reserved.

Learn professional secrets of waterfall and landscape photography at one of our greatest natural treasures—Watkins Glen State Park. Few locations offer as many cascades in one location, and spring is the best time of the year to capture the famous plunges of Cavern Cascade, Rainbow Falls, and more. In addition, practice macro photography on a variety of late-blooming spring wildflowers. Included are classroom and guided field sessions.

Sigma Pro photographer Dave FitzSimmons has been photographing for over twenty years and teaching for just as long. Dave's images appear in Outdoor Photographer, Popular Photography, Shutterbug, various books, and numerous international calendars. He travels the country offering educational programming as one of six Sigma Pro photographers.

Joining Dave in leading the workshop will be Ithaca resident and long-time Watkins Glen interpretive naturalist, Tony Ingraham, author of A Walk through Watkins Glen—Water's Sculpture in Stone.

© Dave FitzSimmons. All Rights Reserved.

Sigma will provide an array of loaner lenses in popular lens mounts for use by participants. In addition, there will be discount coupons & door prizes galore—freebies from Lowepro, Photomatix, Helicon Focus, and Wimberley. Rooms are available at the historic Seneca Lodge, which provides comfortable lodging and fine dining. To register for the Watkins Glen workshop, call 419-892-2900 or select Workshops at www.fitzsimmonsphotography.com.

co-sponsored by  and 